Spring Carnival comes back to campus

By Chuck Mahaleris

Last Friday, University Day was celebrated with the return of a lost tradition. For the first time since 1985, Spring Carnival returned to North Campus.

Over 2,000 students walked, laughed, and cheered beneath threatening skies as fortune tellers, jugglers, mimes, and clowns performed their schticks. More than ten organizations on campus sold such wares as balloons, back rubs, pizza, steaks, photos, fried dough, and even obnoxious noises while WJUL slammed out tunes during their live, full-color coverage of the Carny.

"It was a very successful event," stated Student Activities Director Mary Connelly. "The A.C. put in a great effort and it showed."

$34,000 was the cost of the Carny's success. This price tag included such tid bits as insurance, rented police, the bands, and carnival rides.

Connelly is confident Spring Carnival will return next year.

This was not always the case. In 1985, 39 alcohol-related arrests took place the night before the Carnival. There were at least 15 arrests made during the Carnival itself. Police reported that students, who were told before the event that it would be "dry,"

UMass communist pres. of Stud. Gov't. ousted

(CPS) Conservative students succeeded in ousting a communist as copresident of the University of Massachusetts' student government.

On April 13, the student Supreme Court pushed copresidents Jason Rabinowitz, a member of the Young Communist League, and copresident Shari Silkoff — who doesn't belong to the group — out of office.

Student Attorney General William Collins had argued the student constitution does not allow for more than one president.

The court called for a new presidential election, which will be held pending further appeal from Silkoff and Rabinowitz.

Debbie doesn't do colleges now

By J.M. Rubin

(CPS) — It was a scene repeated on hundreds of campuses:

University of Missouri at Columbia students picketed the campus showing of a porn movie — in this case "The Opening of Misty Beethoven" — one night in early April, and then retired to a nearby auditorium for a heated debate between Gloria Leonard — publisher of "High Society" magazine — and Delores Alexander, founder of Women Against Pornography.

The big news, however, is that the scene hasn't been repeated on very many campuses during the 1987-88 school year.

In short, porn films are becoming scarcer on U.S. campuses. Observers think it's because of increasing competition from videotaped sex movies, a creeping fear of controversy, changing student tastes and maybe even raised student consciousness.

The scarcity, asserts National Organization of Women's spokeswoman Junior Bridge, is "due to all the work done over the years by all organizations in the women's movement to point out where the fun ends and the harm begins."

Others attribute it to money.

"We pick the films that will bring the most attendance," said Deborah Sacarakis of Lehigh University in Pennsylvania, which last screened a dirty movie — "The Story of O" — in 1979, "and those are violent films like 'Robocop.'"

At Arizona State University, the most successful campus moneymakers this year have been "The Gods Must Be Crazy," "La Bamba," "Dim Sum" and "Attack of the Killer Tomatoes," reported activities advisor Rosalyn Munk.

Nationwide, the most popular movie rentals at colleges have been "River's Edge," "My Life As A Dog," "Koyaanisqatsi" and "She's Gotta Have It," said Amy Heller of New Yorker Films, which distributes second-run films.

It's a far cry from the controversy and anger that attended movies like "Wanda Whips Wall Street," "Debbie Does Dallas," "Deep Throat" and blue movie festivals at the universities of Chicago and Tennessee, at Louisiana State and California Institute of Technology, at DePaul and literally hundreds of other schools during the early eighties.

The trend away from dirty movies on campus, in fact, seemed to start during the 1986-87 school year when "Hail Mary" — a serious French film that tried to update the story of the Virgin Mary — provoked Catholic protests at the universities of

Adult Children of Alcoholics and Dysfunctional Families

As adult children from dysfunctional families we understand the painful experiences of growing up in unhealthy environments, whether it was the disease of alcoholism, or other kinds of physical or emotional deprivation. As a group we are trying to have a 'positive outlook' on life today. This kind of attitude will allow us to experience joy, and we can move on a life path of acceptance, love, and freedom. We can choose to change our attitudes and this gives us that wonderful gift of freedom that we search for. The freedom to change to our unhealthy thinking and behavior to one of hope and health. The best way to become healthy is to attend meetings. At meetings we have the opportunities to learn from and to share our hope, support and caring with each other. The following information is the list of meetings held on campus.

Students protest booze bans at 4 campuses

CAMPUS SHORTS

Statue about-face

In an elaborate "rite-of-spring type thing" that required a lot of engineering skill, Rice University students managed to turn a one-ton bronze statue of school founder William Marsh Rice around in the middle of night. On the morning of April 14, the statue was discovered facing south instead of north, as it has for the last 58 years.

"It was a student prank," said Rice spokesman Bill Noblitt.

University police say they have a suspect in the case, which involved disconnecting spotlights normally trained on the statue and using a blackened A-frame lever built with 4' x 6' beams to lift and turn the structure. □

Co-prez ousted

On April 13, the University of Massachusetts' student Supreme Court pushed copresidents Jason Rabinowitz, a member of the Young Communist League, and copresident Shari Silkoff—who doesn't belong to the group—out of office. Student Attorney General William Collins had argued that their constitution does not allow for more than one president.

Almost as soon as Rabinowitz and Silkoff won 67 percent of the votes in the election, conservative members of the student government began a filibuster to keep the election from being officially ratified. Collins maintained Rabinowitz's politics had nothing to do with the effort to keep him from office.

Rabinowitz disagreed. "He's more interested in petty politics than the well-being of the whole student government." □

Instant girlfriends for jocks?

At USC, Prof. Helen Horowitz officially complained last week about athletic department brochures advertising for women students to become a "USC recruiting hostess" to show prospective USC athletes around the Los Angeles campus.

"I think the brochure's a mistake," said USC executive Vice Provost Robert Biller. "I thought we agreed last year that the program would be billed as a host and hostess program."

"This isn't a dating service," insisting recruiting director Jack Himebaugh. "It's strictly a group of girls who are interested and can lend a different touch to the department."

(CPS) — In the midst of what has been the most political, confrontational spring on U.S. campuses in years, students at Colorado State University, the universities of Massachusetts and Oregon, and Cornell College in Iowa vociferously protested new crackdowns on student drinking.

University of Massachusetts students — who have turned the Amherst campus into perhaps the most politically active in the land with big protests against Central Intelligence Agency recruiting, apartheid and racism in recent months, held their biggest gathering of the year April 13 to object to a new ban on alcohol at outdoor events.

Nearly 1,000 UMass students rallied, making it the largest demonstration of the year at the campus, university spokeswoman Jeanne Hopkins said.

Less vehemently, several Colorado State fraternity members complained to the Fort Collins, Co., city council April 20 that local police — hoping to prevent another alcohol-fueled riot like last April's "College Daze" spring street party — have used excessive force in halting student drinking parties recently.

Similarly, University of Oregon officials derailed a beer blowout April 18 by immediately banning beer kegs at fraternity and sorority parties.

Advance word of a proposed ban on alcohol, Oregon vice president for Student Affairs Gerard Moseley said, prompted some student talk about "closing the street... for one last big party," but the event never gelled.

Campus administrators are trying to discourage student drinking in other ways, too.

At the University of Maine at Orono, Prof. George Narkowsky has proposed draining drinking references from the school song, which encourages singers to "fill your steins to dear old Maine... drink a toast once again."

"I respect your right to go drink your brains out. But the university shouldn't encourage it," Narkowsky explained. He would like to forget the toast, and replace references to "Maine men" with "Maine grads."

An as-yet unnamed committee will soon consider Narkowsky's suggestions but there are strong feelings on both sides of the issue.

Noting singer Rudy Vallee made "The Maine Stein Song" a hit during the 1930's, student Tom Caulfield noted, "it's the only school fight song ever to make the Top 40." He called the proposal "stupid".

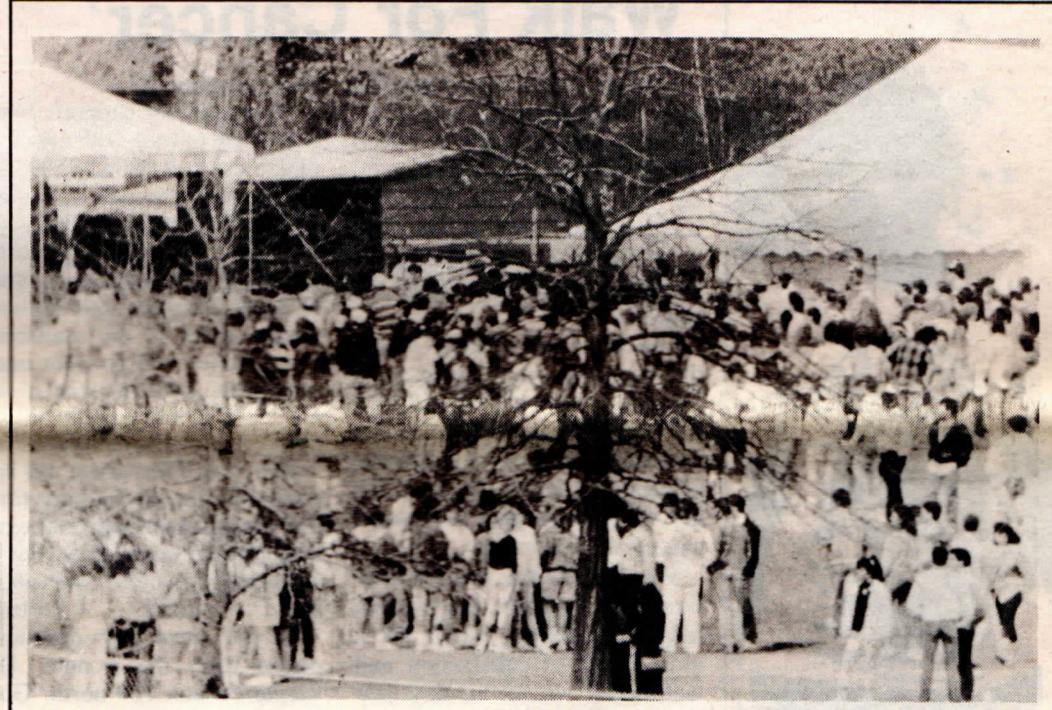

At Massachusetts, student protesters chanted "Give beer a chance" and "Joe's gotta go" while carrying beer cans to protest Chancellor Joseph Duffey's decision to ban alcohol. Hopkins said the demonstration was orderly, but probably wouldn't change Duffey's mind about the ban.

The ban at Oregon prohibits bulk beer purchases, defined as ones made by 3 or more students who pool their money to buy alcoholic beverages. Mosely said the school has asked greek houses to not serve alcohol to students under age 21, but those efforts have not worked.

At Cornell College, officials banned alcohol from Alumni Gym for an indefinite period in response to reports that 33 minors tried to buy beer at alumni parties March 11 and 12.

student government."

At the same time, student government battles erupted at the University of New Mexico, where student President Lillian Montoya first fired student Attorney General Jon Price for improperly ruling campuswide March 30 elections invalid, and then prompted the whole Election Commission to resign when she prodded it to hold a second election.

Election commission members, however, said they wouldn't call a second election because the first one never was formally invalidated.

The University of Alabama student court, meanwhile, last week held hearings to determine if it should "try" 16 students accused of voting more than once in the school's March elections, and perhaps swinging the election in favor of a certain candidate.

University of Colorado College Republicans, moreover, blasted the student Cultural Events Board for loading the mid-March International Women's Week program with "leftist" speakers, and asked CU's regents to monitor the board's "political balance." □

Oklahoma (twice), Kansas, North Dakota and Nebraska, among other schools, to become the year's most censored film.

No one is sure why campus tastes seem to be changing.

"I don't know what the general student taste is governed by," Lehigh's Sacarakis shrugged.

She does know it's getting touchier. The biggest controversy she's encountered this year was about whether to advertise a student film series with a tame still from the movie "The Untouchables" or a more erotic still from "The Big Easy."

The students who work with Sacarakis chose the tame still.

"We don't want to deal with those problems" said Leslie Archer of the University of California-Davis's Ski Club, which used to raise money by showing "Misty Beethoven."

These days, Archer added, the club would screen "fairly new releases, not controversial films."

Heller of New Yorker Films also thought fear of controversy — especially at "small, religious or southern schools" — was keeping sex movies off campus film series, though she believes videotapes are the biggest reason.

"They're not making those movies on film any more," she said. "They're making them on videotape, and they go straight to the video store."

Arizona State's Mung agrees. "Students are still interested, but they can get X-rated videos."

Lou Ross of the National Association for Campus Activities, which helps book live — and distinctly clothed — entertainment at schools around the country, also attributes the porn shortage to a "video backlash."

"Students," added Don Haley, a publicist for several Los Angeles X-rated movie theaters, "don't have to go to a theater or a campus showing. They go straight to the video store."

Videos, shown at home, also relieve students of the embarrassment of being seen at the more public porn showings at campus film series.

"We'd lose about half the audience in 20 minutes," Ross recalls of his days of sponsoring dirty movies at Tulane University. "They were unhappy or embarrassed at being there, but they'd fulfilled their desire to see what this kind of movie was about."

With so much porn in video stores, Munk added, "there's no big mystery about these things now."

With the mystery gone and the titillation readily available in video stores, the controversy has been harder to generate.

Yet some film sponsors complain they need the controversy to attract campus audiences.

"Another frat showed a double feature of porn films recently," said Rick Pighini, president of the Northern Illinois University Tau Kappa Epsilon chapter, which sponsored a "Deep Throat" screening last September. "There was no protest, so they didn't get a large crowd as we got with protesters."

Gordon Schell, Tulane's new film advisor, said the most controversy he's faced was last spring, when his group announced it was showing "The Rocky Horror Picture Show" instead of a porn movie, thus provoking a spate of protest calls to his office.

'Bertha' will leave you in stitches

Bertha the Sewing Machine Girl. By Robert Emmett and Gordon Connell. Directed by Maggie L. Harrer. At the Merrimack Repertory Theatre, Lowell, MA, through May 15. Ticket reservations: 454-3926

By Barry Holt

If you've ever been on the Lowell Parks and Recreation Department's mill tour then you'll be familiar with the working conditions in "Bertha the Sewing Machine Girl," now in its world premiere at the Merrimack Repertory Theatre through May 15. But instead of Lowell's crowded textile mills this musical comedy takes its setting from the similar sweatshops of turn-of-the-century New York City, where greed and exploitation are the standard means of ensuring a profit.

Bertha is a doe-eyed, trusting soul whose sewing machine whirs 14 hours day to provide for her poor 'ale-ing' father. At work she not only copes with the demanding pace of production but also endures the advances of her boss and the corruption of her sister workers, one of whom sets her up for a crime which establishes the action for the rest of the play.

theater review

Yet from this fabric director Harrer has sewn not so much a woe-is-me tale as a comic lesson in perseverance and good attitude management. What makes this play so much fun is Bertha's unflinching wholesomeness in the face of all her trials. Who else could take up residence in a bordello and not realize it? Bertha's approach to life is strictly based on trust and innocence, yet as played by Abra Bigham, she avoids seeming puritanical. Instead her blithe ignorance of the duplicity around her is affecting. She plays her part right to the hilt—and it works.

In fact all of the characters could have been cut from a Dudley DoRight episode, which perfectly suits the high-spirited tempo and tongue-in-cheek style of this production. Rounded out by lively and amusing musical numbers, 'Bertha' is worth threading your way through downtown Lowell to see.

Student's mother organizes 'Walk For Cancer'

Hi! I am proud to announce that my mother, Vreni Ziegler, is embarking on a walk from Westford to Boston's Dana Farber Institute, on May 7 and May 8. My mom is doing this in order to hand them a check to be used in their energetic search for a cure for cancer.

Cancer is one of those words that makes everyone's heart race. Every one of us has either heard of or seen one of those people that have been affected by the ugliness of cancer. I know too well; for my mom faced and conquered cancer six years ago.

We all know that this is a busy time for everybody, but you can help. By helping, you'll get a great sense of satisfaction and well-being; which can only help you with the stress of fun-filled finals coming up.

We need your support. If you would like to walk with my mom, please call her at 692-3539. She will be happy to talk to you and answer any questions that you may have. If you would rather just pledge per mile, go to North or South Campus, and fill out a pledge sheet in the mailroom. Your money will go right into a non-profit bank account at the Shawmut County Bank on Littleton Road in Westford.

Hey, you'll feel great, and help a worthy cause at the same time! Feeling good around final exam time doesn't come easy, but by supporting my mom, you can get that good feeling.

If you have any questions, please drop me a note, Dan Ziegler, in box 169 north. Good Luck!!!

Mahaleris shines in 'Six Characters'

Six Characters in Search of an Author. Written by Luigi Pirandello. Directed by Gardner Tillson. Produced by the U.Lowell Players. Sponsored by the U.Lowell Center for the Performing and Visual Arts.

By Barry Holt

'Six Characters' is a play within a play within a play. The U.Lowell Players' production opens with the cast preparing to rehearse a play, when they are interrupted by the inexplicable concept of six disenfranchised characters who were created by an author but then never used in a play. They must convince the director of the play in progress to let their story be told instead. Eventually he does so, and it is a tale of human failings that ends in death and suicide. The six characters with their grim tale are in a kind of Hell, fated to play out their story, while the regular actors either relegate themselves to the sidelines, become bored, or try adapting the character's existence into a stilted theatrical performance. All the while, the director tries to contain and control the whole scenario even as he gropes comically to understand it. (Oh, yes, I nearly forgot to mention that this is also a comedy.)

And comedy is a style that the Players understand extremely well, as this latest production once again confirms. From the egotistical posturings of the various actors to the virtuoso hamming of John Forgione, the troupe has put together a cast where even the more minor parts were played with subtle fine touches that helped make this a good production. But mixed with the humor and horror are many ambiguous questions. Which is more real—the characters seeking to tell their story or the conventionalized version of their troubles that the director wants to make of it? Can an actor ever truly approximate real life?

theater review

These hair-splitting philosophical questions emerge as the play unfolds—although the character's tragedy is so twisted it is difficult to follow if you aren't already familiar with it. As spokesman for the characters, master thespian Chris Connell put in a convincing performance, struggling with the director as well as the complicity of his character. In a dialogue-heavy piece such as this it was fortunate to have the Players' top gun in that pivotal role. His placement alongside the director, played to perfection by Mark Murphy with his Colonel Klink delivery and Truman Capote make-up job ensured that this was an engaging play.

It was good to see the addition of bright new talent to the stage in the persons of Faith Henry, Richard Peck, Susan Kampouras, and Dan 'The Critter Man' Foley, whose character defined the look of the 1920's setting. For the numerous veterans it was business as usual once again with Greg Menafo, Katherine Connery, Stephanie Burke, Peter Anton, and Kim Pizzano all turning in well-rehearsed and confident performances.

Particularly gratifying was the emergence of an untapped store of dramatic energy, i.e., Charles 'Six Lines in Search of a Character' Mahaleris. Justifiably the next Ernest Borgnine, his expressiveness, comportment and mastery of non-verbal communication captured the essence of his part in a manner almost too real to be believed, making him my uncontested pick for Miller Lite 'Player' of the Week.

Pershing rifles

The instructor's class was highly informal, the material was not. Staff Sergeant P.H. Durand USMC lectured on procedures for protection against NCB (Nuclear-Chemical-Biological) warfare. It was such a highly informative class that even after three years in the United States Army, I learned a great deal.

Training aids were greatly used throughout the class. I was able to don full protective gear to the extent of the M-17 protective mask and MOPP Suit (Mission Oriented Protective Posture) designed to filter out the various chemical and biological agents such as blood, blister, nerve, and choke used in today's combat environment. The suit is constructed of nylon with a charcoal liner to act as a filter and is effective in six hours of constant exposure to these conditions. The mask was worn and fitted as well. This piece of equipment can be considered the most vital item a fighting man (woman) can have in these circumstances, after all, one can't breathe clean air from an M-16 service rifle. Both mask and suit tend to be warm, fortunately, the instruction was in a classroom environment. If a combat situation was at hand, body temperature and sweat output would be greatly increased.

Though more people could have attended Sgt. Durand's class, those that were present received some highly informative training. If there are any questions, please feel free to contact the brothers of Squadron N-12 as to find out what they learned and I'm sure the response given will be a highly impressionable one.

ZENITH INNOVATES AGAIN — WITH THE NEW BATTERY-DRIVEN SUPERSPORT™ — TO TAKE YOU FROM COLLEGE TO CAREER.

Small, lightweight, flexible and economical. Ideal for spreadsheets, word processing and more. That's the new SupersPort from Zenith Data Systems — today's leader in battery-operated portables.

FLEXIBLE COURSE SCHEDULE. Whatever your agenda, the SupersPort's modular configuration easily adapts to your computing style. With a detachable battery for easier portability. An AC adapter/recharger that plugs into any outlet. MS-DOS® to run virtually all PC/XT compatible software. And 640K RAM — expandable to 1.64MB with EMS. Plus the SupersPort comes in your choice of dual 3.5" 720K floppy drive or 20MB hard disk models. For flexible desktop performance anywhere on campus.

CARRY SOME GREAT HOURS THIS TERM. Hours of battery power, that is. For greater productivity everywhere your studies take you. Thanks to Zenith's comprehensive Intelligent Power Management — a system that lets you control how your battery power is consumed. So you won't waste valuable energy on components and peripherals not in use.

EASY COLLEGE READING. The easiest. After all, the SupersPort features Zenith's renowned dazzling backlit Supertwist LCD screen for crisp text and superior readability. And its CRT-size display is one-third larger than most competing portables for enhanced viewing. The screen even tilts back 180-degrees so it lies flat to accommodate a desktop monitor.

Need a major? Try American studies

The program's focus, as its name suggests, is the study of the development of American society and its culture. Students are encouraged to select—along with American studies courses—two disciplines of their choosing from which to view the American way. The major enables students to develop tools with which to deal with people, institutions, traditions, and new ideas. Students in American studies believe that an interdisciplinary approach is necessary for understanding the relationship between, let us say, democracy and technology, the individual and society, tradition and change, family and work, domestic and foreign affairs, minorities and the majority.

The major is rooted in the Liberal Arts, but students are encouraged to acquire basic business and computer skills, and to undertake a field experience in a profession of one's choosing. Practical skills combined with the demands made upon students by the major to read, think, and write with a high level of excellence prepare American studies majors for the challenges of American life.

Although our American studies graduates are not as famous as Yale's Tom Wolfe or Gerry Studds, they have pursued a variety of careers with great success. Graduates who have entered business are executives, technical writers, sales managers, and product managers; others have gone into public relations, the media, film making, government service; become lawyers, ministers, teachers, college professors, and successful parents.

If you enjoy shaping your major, a challenging academic experience, and an understanding of forces shaping American values, consider American studies. See Dr. Cliff Lewis (O'Leary Library 407) for more details.

Scavenger Results

Congratulations to the Scavenger Hunt teams who went out in the pouring rain and sleet and the dark of the night to compete in the Scavenger Hunt. Six teams showed up on the North Campus baseball diamond at 11pm to turn in their items. The winners Mark Matthews and Bruce Joncas turned in 48 out of 50 items. The two items that weren't found were a wig and a slider rule. Tom Kershaw & Carol Cahalane and Charles Sperry & Sue Krauss tied for second place with 41 items. The other three teams were Linda Nelson & John Kenna with 39 items, Dave Zebuhr & Jill Bernier with 30 items and Mike Cournoyer & Mike Haddad with 29. Tee-shirts were given to all who finished and harbor cruise tickets were awarded to the top three teams. Once again congratulations to the six teams who showed had the enthusiasm to finish.

The Connector

Invites all members of the university community to submit articles, letters, points of information, news, and yes even comics for publication. All that we ask is that it be typed double-spaced and in our hot little hands by Monday at 5:00 p.m. Thanks for your support.

AL-ANON

Al-Anon is a fellowship of men and women meeting together to overcome the effects of living or having lived with an alcoholic. This program enables families and friends of alcoholics to recover from the chaotic effects of the disease of alcoholism. The success of Al-Anon comes from following the Twelve Step program developed by Alcoholics Anonymous. Al-Anon becomes the community resource for relatives and friends of alcoholics.

"Alcoholism is a family disease. The well-being of anyone living with an alcoholic is affected emotionally, physically, and spiritually. Al-Anon Family Groups offer help to anyone who is or has been affected by the problem of alcoholism in a relative or friend. Al-Anon is for people who have a problem they want to solve by sharing their experience, strength and hope with other people; the more varied the membership, the broader the opportunity to share recovery. Whatever our relationship to the alcoholic, Al-Anon is a place to share, a place to care and a place to grow."***

(Al-Anon Sharings, ACOA Al-Anon Conference Approved Literature.)

AL-ANON MEETINGS will be held EVERY TUESDAY EVENING starting at 7:30 p.m. - 9 p.m. in FOX HALL ROOM 604.

Opinion

One for the Road

By Margaret Smith

Perhaps this spring semester has not been the most exciting one for ULowell-just look at yearbooks from the early seventies for comparison-but there were enough noteworthy events to make it worth remembering.

Many of these events were visits by noteworthy people: Watergate Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox; members of local Indian tribes holding their annual powwow; playwright Jack Neary; Governor and Presidential hopeful Michael Dukakis.

We also saw the first state tuition increase proposal in three years, a proposal that could double tuition in five years. The Chiefs won the NCAA Division II Basketball Championship, and SGA elections enjoyed a voter turnout of nearly 1000. Racial tensions are on the rise, subtly here and more blatantly on other campuses. A Supreme Court ruling in January declared that high school papers are not protected by the First Amendment-a ruling some fear will make it easier to impose the same restrictions on college papers.

Typically, the Connector received more response over an occasional carefree personal or comic than all of the above combined.

To those readers who are leaving, I hope you have found the Connector a useful and enjoyable news source; if you didn't, and you never said anything to us about it, why not?

To everyone who is returning, look out for these predictions in the fall: trendwatchers say that it will soon be cool to be considerate of others; involvement and open-mindedness will be the watchwords in the years to come. Bush and Dukakis will be running neck and neck, or at least at a brisk trot, and perhaps we will learn what is meant by Jesse's "presence". The weather will become gradually cooler, accompanied by leaves changing from green to golden-brown. Warm jackets and sweaters will be common.

Until then, have fun, drive carefully, and avoid any enterprise requiring new clothes.

Letters to the Editor:

Allocation problems

I am writing in regards to the SGA's recent problems in issuing checks to clubs from their allocations. The process is supposed to take up to two weeks due to the fact that the requests must pass through both the finance and activities committee. The problem that now exists is that once the request is approved, the checks are taking an additional one to two weeks to be signed by all the necessary people. This is due partly to the lame duck status of the SGA treasurer and also to the resignation of the faculty advisor. As the treasurer of the Biology Club I have had extreme difficulty in getting checks to pay for speakers that have already visited. This is an embarrassment to our club, the department and faculty members who have helped to get us speakers. It also does not look good for the University as many of the people that are waiting for their honorarium are also potential employers. The SGA must review its method of dispensing the clubs allocations so that we can depend on the money that has already been set aside for us to be there when we need it.

Michael Kelliher, Treasurer
Jamil Malik, Secretary
Dr. Robert D. Lynch,
Faculty Advisor

note that quote

"...I hear the boys of summer in their ruin..."

-Dylan Thomas

Who'll stop the pain

It's Saturday night. Linda slathers Revlon lotion on her body. Don is glad that he's used Dial and is massaging Gillette Foamy on his face before shaving. Linda applies Aveon nail polish to her toe nails. Don slaps on Canoe aftershave and reaches for the Right Guard antiperspirant. Linda dabs Estee Lauder moisturizer, Clinique foundation and Mary Kay makeup. Linda uses Dry Idea Deodorant. Don sprays Dry Look on his hair. Linda sprays her hair with White Rain and then applies Maybelline lipstick.

Down the road at the laboratories of these companies, a dog cringes in pain after being administered lethal quantities of shampoo. In a nearby room a caged rabbit lies in pain induced stupor with aftershave eating away at its bared, raw skin. Is the pain these animals feel necessary?

We consumers have been fed an industry-perpetuated myth. It's a myth that testing on animals is a necessary evil. Testing on animals is not necessary, but it is evil. The Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act of 1958 stipulates that it does not require cosmetics and personal care products to be tested on animals. All that it requires is that the ingredients of each product be substantiated for safety prior to marketing.

There are two general categories of product testing: irritancy and toxicity. The irritancy of substances can allegedly be tested by the Draize eye test and the Draize skin irritancy test. In the Draize eye test substances such as shampoo are placed in the eyes of rabbits or monkeys. The animal may be kept from wiping its eyes by having its head locked in a stock or secured through an opening in a cage. The eyes are checked for symptoms such as bloody discharge, redness and swelling. No consideration is given to the pain the animal must endure, nor prevention of injury, nor treatment of the injury after the test has ended.

Toxicity tests include acute, subacute, and chronic sub-categories. The duration of the tests varies from two weeks for acute tests, such as the Lethal Dose 50• test (LD-50 test), to several years for the chronic tests. Toxic substances may be applied directly to the skin (usually to the skin of confined rabbits) or force fed to dogs, rats and monkeys or forced into the air passages of monkeys and rats in inhalation chambers. The animals are forced to inhale substances such as hairspray and deodorant in extreme concentrations. The results of these torture tests are not valid for humans and therefore cannot truthfully be applied to humans.

Tests for consumer product safety which do not employ animals exist but the tests are not being performed. Why? Evidence shows that the cosmetic manufacturers do not test products for safety. They test products instead to protect themselves from consumer liability claims. Should there be a lawsuit by an injured consumer, the manufacturer points to animal testing as evidence of its concern for safety even though they know that the animal test results are invalid for humans. Testing on animals has little to do with consumer safety. Congress is beginning to recognize this fact that is why the Consumer Products Safety Testing Act (House of Representatives Bill 1635) has been proposed in Congress.

Alternatives to animal tests do exist. Tests such as the CAM test which uses a chicken egg membrane (it has no nervous system) can be used instead of the rabbit's eye. The Medical College of Pennsylvania uses human cell cultures to simulate cell injury caused by toxic chemicals instead of dogs, monkeys or rats. Computer modeling of a variety of animal Draize and Toxicity tests also exist.

Speak up for those who cannot speak up for themselves. Protect them; protect yourself. You can stop the pain! ULowell Animal Rights Group, c/o Steve Box #75.

Open letter to the activities commission

Spring Carnival was a terrific success. Mark Vigneault and his staff including John Demers and Tony Libro deserve a great deal of credit.

The planning process started last October. With coaching from Mary Connelly, Director of Student Activities, Mark was able to bring to our student body a totally enjoyable day. He was sensitive to budget constraints, yet with the cooperation of the University's Facilities Department, the team was able to provide something for everyone--a real fun day!!!!

My sincerest congratulations to Mark and his team--it was great!

Student escorts more service than you think

Peter Bernard

Seven semesters have been completed with the Student Escort Service in operation. The main purpose of this group is to ensure that you arrive at your intended destination (on or off campus) safely. Currently there are 28 escorts, 4 supervisors and 2 co-directors who are all students. This organization is student run and supervised. It has also served as a model for other schools.

This service is the "pet project" of James Rowe, Chief of University Police. With the cooperation of Chief Rowe, the Administration and Trustees this program has been made into something the students and the University can show great pride in.

Under the umbrella of University Police these student also act as there eyes and ears when they are on duty. The escorts carry radios which puts them in constant contact with University Police Dispatch and all officers. The escorts can act as a pool of workers to aid the police if so needed. They can help in crowd control, general security patrols and helping students until the University Police can arrive. In some specific in 1986 escorts assisted the Lowell Police with a vehicle that had been broken into, assisted University Police in the arrest of a person for trespassing, assisted a motorist at University Ave and Riverside St. by giving a jump start, assisted a student in changing a flat tire in the Fox parking lot and assisted an ambulance crew to remove an injured girl from Fox Hall.

To get an escort you can go to the lobby areas in Concordia Hall, Eames Hall or in Fox. You can approach any University Police Officer and request one, call 452-5000 ext. 2960, or you can use one of the radio call boxes.

Army ROTC advanced camp, 1988

As the semester begins to wind down and we're all realizing that we have a lot of studying to do in a very short time, I'm counting the days until I leave for ROTC Advanced Camp at Fort Bragg, N.C. I've spent the past year preparing for Camp, and now I feel ready to meet the challenge.

I joined ROTC here at ULowell last fall after 2½ years in the National Guard, looking to obtain my commission. Every Thursday morning at 6:30, me and my fellow cadets have taken ROTC courses and Leadership Lab to prepare us for Camp and commissions. We've worked hard and, believe me, it hasn't been easy. We've had work to do outside of class and we've had field training exercises to prepare us. Now, all that remains is actually going to Camp and, hopefully, performing up to standards.

As Camp does approach, I'm feeling pretty confident, not just about Camp but also about my life. In school, you learn something, take a test, then forget a great deal of the material without ever applying it. Many students, myself included, have wondered how they'll perform in the 'real world'. In ROTC, I've had to apply not only the military skills that I've learned but the management skills I've acquired here at ULowell. Without ROTC, and, also, Pershing Rifles, which has afforded me ample opportunity to teach others what I know and learn new things, I don't think that I'd feel nearly as confident about my future.

So, the clock is ticking, and Camp will soon be here, with Airborne School and Senior year not far behind. Am I scared? I'd be foolish not to be. This summer, I'll be tested on many levels, physically and mentally. There will be plenty of opportunities to mess up, while I'll be constantly evaluated. My future as an officer hinges upon my performance. Despite all that, I feel anxious to get there, to show what I can do and learn from my fellow cadets. The cadre and the cadets here at ULowell have prepared me well; now all I have to do is make them proud. I hope I do.

Cadet Sergeant Joseph P. Foran

Athletes 'vanned' out this week

By V. Castora and M. Chambers

Through the incompetence of the facilities department, many athletic teams were delayed and one event cancelled this past week. On Wednesday, April 27, the van carrying two athletes and a coach, to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania had a sudden loss of power. Fortunately, the assistant coach was following them in his own (reliable) car. The men waited two and a half hours for a replacement van to arrive. While they waited for the van, the athletes ran, and ate dinner twice. The athletic department sent two (running) vans to assist the disabled one. The men arrived in Philadelphia only four hours behind schedule.

The track team was not the only team plagued by a breakdown. On their way home from Connecticut, one of the vans carrying members of the softball team broke down 45 minutes outside Lowell. The other van went ahead, assuming that the van had only fallen behind. Due to some error, AAA would not assist the disabled van; Leo Mello, head of facilities, was awoken from his home, picked up a school van, and retrieved the other members of the team. This was not the only incident for the softball team. On their way to a double header against NY Tech, one of the vans' radiator exploded. Twenty-two women and coaches piled into the other van and travelled the additional hour to their destination. They were forced to borrow a van from CW Post (a school with a reliable facilities department) to make the trek back home. The broken van was left on the highways of New York.

And for the grand finale, the track team was forced to cancel their trip to Brown University due to faulty steering in the vehicle. The van, hilariously, never even made it out of the parking lot. Needless to say, the athletes were truly disappointed. They will be forced to compete in the Eastern League Championships with no warm-up meet.

Four incidents in one week indicates a deep-rooted problem with the maintenance of the vans here at the University. Although we have made light of this situation, grave dangers exist with people stranded on highways with help hours away. Perhaps a pre-trip van check (for example, take it to your personal mechanic) would help eliminate these situations.

Carny road race a success

A small, but enthusiastic group of runners participated in the first annual Spring Carnival Road Race. The 1.5 mile race began at 10:30 on Friday morning. The top time for the men's was set by Steve Bonin (8:26). Rounding out the top three were Andrew Petruzzello (8:39), and Nick Anastasiades (9:39). The top women were winner Christine Leonard (10:48) and Tracy Proventure (11:22). These times will go into the record books as the times to beat for next year's 2nd Annual Spring Carny Road Race. Congratulations to all who participated.

Women's track cruises at Fitchburg

The women's track team continues to turn in outstanding performances in their outdoor season. On the 16th of April, they accumulated 52 points at Fitchburg State as they competed in a triangular meet which also included Maine. First place points were garnered by Jane Seebruch in the high jump, who cleared a height of 5' 6". Seebruch also leaped 16' 1 1/2" to finish second in the long jump. Joanne Rudolph added second place points in the triple jump as she soared a distance of 31' 11 1/2". She also came back to finish fourth in the 100m hurdles with a time of 18.9 seconds. Mary Beth McKinney doubled in the 200m and 400m sprints, where she captured third place in both events with times of 27.9 and 62.3 seconds, respectively. In a meet where it was

Lightweight lightning strikes twice

By Mary E. Cullen

This past weekend Lowell hosted many of their top competitors at the Bellegarde Boathouse. Out of eight categories, two Lowell boats emerged victorious: the lightweight women's and men's four swept across the finish line ahead of the enemy.

No one school dominated as the regatta pitted many of the nation's top seated crews against one another. The river rose three feet the night before the race tearing away the course and providing a forceful current on which U-Mass, Tufts, Williams and Union could showcase their spring crews before the national finals to be held May 12-14 in Philadelphia.

The big upset of the day came during the heavy weight men's eight race. Lowell relinquished their 5-1 record finishing third behind Williams and U-Mass.

These crews are Lowell's major rivals in the upcoming New Englands and Dad Vails.

'Stand on those legs,' erupted coach Jim Polcari as he ran along the river bank during the women's lightweight four race. Lowell was behind to the 1000m mark of the 2000m race and poured on the power to walk past Williams and finish the race with open water at a time of 7:05. The exhausted crew, made up of coxswain: Chris 'Peab' O'Connor, stroke: Stephanie McDonnell, Tish Abraham, Mary Cullen and bow: Nancy Burgess, was psyched to win against such a formidable opponent.

It wasn't until the men's lightweight four race that Lowell again seized victory. Lowell swept across the log ridden course with ease as the Union crew weaved awkwardly onward into the face of defeat. This crew prepares to battle it out in the pending races maintaining the intensity and endurance they exhibited Saturday.

The men's lightweight eight and novice 'A' boats were just ebb'd out of first. Now these two crews must buckle down to hard work and concentration so they can snatch victory from the jaws of their competition. The next two weeks will prove crucial to all the crews in their quest for victory.

This weekend Lowell travels to Worcester to Lake Quinsigamond to compete in the New England Championships. Only one crew will emerge victor in each category and Lowell is ready to prove they can be number one. With a few wins this weekend Lowell can confidently travel to Philadelphia and take on the best the nation has to dish out. Wane off.

Racial Awareness Day

at the University of Lowell

*Racism, by definition, is animosity shown to people of different races.*

The Facts about Racism and ULowell

1. Racial harrassment does occur at ULowell. This includes verbal physical and written abuse.
2. Every minority at ULowell is a victim of easily identifiable verbal assaults (graffiti, use of insensitive language including epithets and humor in poor taste) that often, unfortunately, go unacknowledged.

Why is racial balance important?

1. Racial balance is important for greater awareness, understanding and appreciation of different cultures.
2. Racial balance provides equal opportunity for all minorities.

Show people that you care!!

Wear a pin on Racial Awareness Day to show that you realize there is a problem and that you care about the solution.

There is no such thing as a passive antiracist!!

The pin you wear will show you care.

**If you or someone you know has been a victim of racism, please call 452-5000 and ask for: The Affirmative Action Committee or Minority Affairs.*

Quiet day for women

Reflection on "Fire-Woman"?

Are you a "fire-woman"? The following questions might help you come closer to the fire in your life: What different forms does fire take? What are your usual (or perhaps unusual) contacts with fire? What are the properties of fire? What is it like to have too much fire? What is it like to have too little fire? How would a woman whose fire-nature is in play handle problems?

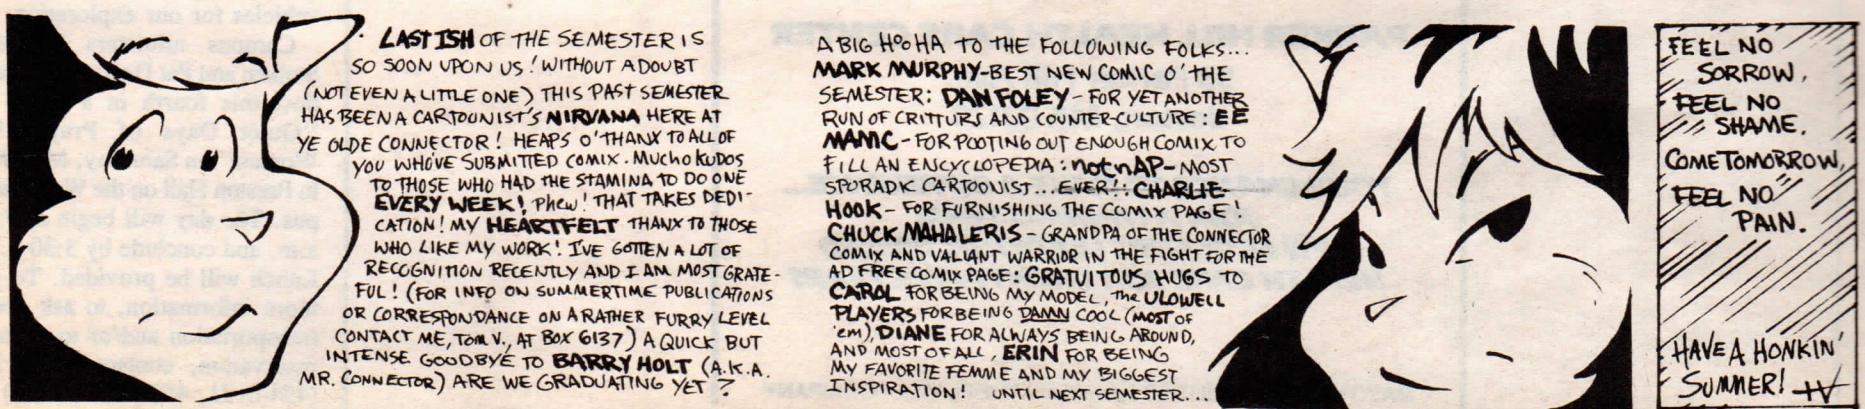

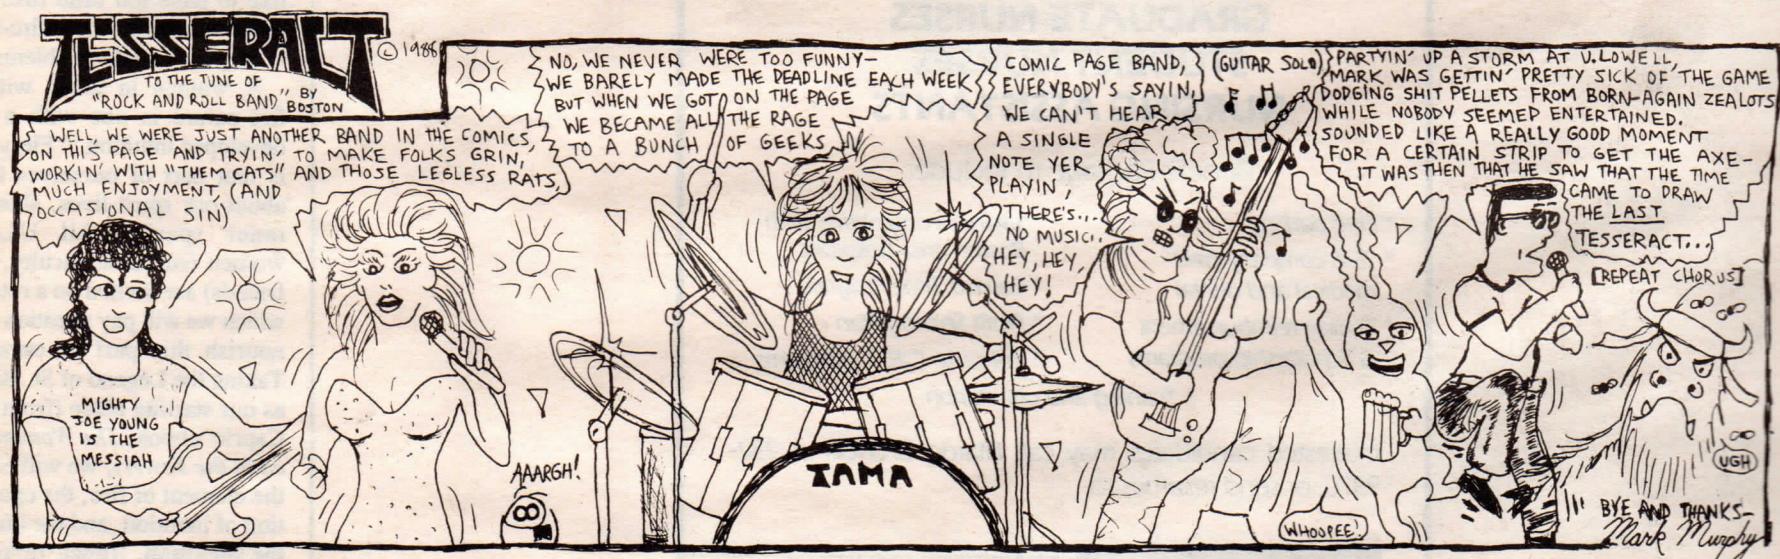

A woman in touch with her fire-nature is one with a well-developed intuition. "Fieryness" is that part of ourselves that is about our spirit-lives, about our inner sparks. All ULowell women (students, faculty, staff, friends) are invited on a retreat at which we will pay attention to and nourish this part of ourselves. Taking the Legend of St. Barbara as our starting place (from Betsy Caprio's book, The Woman Sealed in the Tower), we will explore the element of fire, the ego function of intuition, and the image of the shekinah. Ritual, reflection, faith-sharing, and drawing will be vehicles for our exploration.

Campus ministers Imogene Stulken and Pat Davison will conduct this fourth in a series of "Quiet Days of Prayer for Women" on Saturday, May 7th, in Preston Hall on the West Campus. The day will begin at 9:00 a.m. and conclude by 3:30 p.m. Lunch will be provided. To get more information, to ask about transportation and/or to make a reservation, contact either Pat (454-0151, 452-5000 x2464) or Imogene (454-0683).

Personals

To all Personals Page User: This is just a reminder that in order for your personal to be published, it must conform to the following specifications: 1) Typed; 2) On a 3x5 index card; 3) First and last name and box number on the back; 4) Only one personal per card; 5) I reserve the right to edit as I see fit; 6) Limit three personals per name and box number per week; 7) In the Connector office by 5:00pm the Monday before publication. The Typesetter

Honey: How did I get those rug burns on my knee? Or the bruise on my stomach? Or the bite marks on my neck? Thanks for the other night. You seem to have lost your talent with the ice cubes. Did you forget or are you just out of practice? I am available anytime. Love, Bambi

Bambi, How about next Friday night around 7:30? The Typesetter

Joe P- Thanks for the best three years of my life. Hope the next 27 are filled with even more excitement. I love you! Cheryl

Roger, Dave Gary and Jim - Thanks for all the excitement you brought in Values class. I wish Gary would not think of me as a b-killer. Dave, I hope you won't be mad at me just because I did better than you on all the tests and quizzes. Hope to see you guys around. The Blonde without the short skirt. P.S. Roger - I don't eat apples with a spoon.

The Hopeful One, You say you can't find a man, would you care to try a beast?

Devastation Inc: Yawn ...Beast

Linda, I really love you. Forever, A.J.

Linda... Beep Beep Be Deep Beep Beep ... A.J.

12 Floor Low: It was a good time Thursday night. Thanx to all that made it possible

Thanx to all the people who made my first year back such a good time. Ray, Vic, Julie, Pam & Pam, the guys on 12, Towers staff and assorted roommates (You know who you are). You're all great. -Smitty

Hey B- Have a good summer and hope to see you and K sometime soon. -MOGE-
Smitty - Hyell-lo. Good luck next year as RA. -MOGE-

Hey, Large Marge - How's it growing? Hope you had a good time because I sure did. -MOGE-

Catcher - I'm glad you came to the party Thursday night. I hope you had a good time. Even I couldn't drink that tequila stuff I made. I've one question, what the hell is a schnook??? -5 Floors straight up

To the Hopeful One: Dancing alone sucks. Sci-Fi (Box 373)

To the Hopeful One: The men you're looking for are out here, and God knows we've been shot down enough. We feel exactly the same way you do. We're not exactly "Greek gods", but you have to look past the surface to find what you claim you seek. We're out here waiting. Sic-Fi (box 373) and the Transplanted Rebel (box 109)

Julie: I promise to give back those nude pictures of Ernest Borgine -Ray.

Julie: The end of an era but the foundation for a greater. -Ray

Ray: Cut that out!! You're scaring me!!! -Julie

Karate Club, Connector, Players and everyone else I know: Have a great summer and party it up!!! See you next fall, Dr. Strangelove

ULowell Players: Not bad, not bad. To my great surprise you pulled it off. Congratulations on a job well done. Dr. Strangelove

Players, Tech Crew: Beth, Barry, Dave, Charlie, and Chuck - You are the best crew I have ever had the honor of working with. Keep in touch, your Tech Director, Dr. Strangelove

To Ray, Vic Elaina, Bonnie, Tom Z, Mike, Kathy, Jay, Lynda, Sarah, Amy, Melissa, Ramona, Jennifer, JT, Dan: Well, we finally made it!!! Four years (yes, 4 years) of hard work!!! Good luck in the future to all. See ya at graduation!! Julie

TK (Ex-EIC) and Hary Bolt: Well, I guess that's it as far as the Connector is concerned. It's about time Mr. Connector graduated anyway. Good luck in whatever you two are doing in your Connector afterlives. See ya at the banquet and maybe at graduation. Dizzy

To Julio (Penny): Wax the Dolphin with some duck sauce before investing in real estate in Wilmington. Also, Dinner would have tasted a lot better if you had used your plastic. Smitty and Vic

Everyone: Have an awesome summer! Party it up, keep healthy and get have fun!!!! The Typesetter

To the Portuguese Fisherman in 1220 and the Tequila Whore in 1208 (Vic and Smitty): Let's not talk about waxing dolphins... Those who fall off (or should I say jump) 10 foot stone walls in Cancun shouldn't tease the gullible. I won't mention that booze cruise in Cancun or the Girl Scout cookie incident. -Julio

To Gold Finger or is it Tequila Whore: Instead of reaching out and touching someone just say Donde Jose and smile - life isn't that bad. Good luck next year, see ya! Vic 1220

Smitty: A personal of thanks for a great year, an open ear, and introducing Piels to me. Good luck in Leitch an no TW jokes. -your roommate

Above: You're thanking your roommate for introducing you to Piels!?!? Shooting him would be a more appropriate response I would think. The Typesetter

To a snob... What's up? Do you always get everything you want? When are you teaching me how to water ski? Let's go to the beach. Hope you don't think I'm really... Cruel & Heartless

Tom is so Verre...

Who ever heard of a Platygotaaphilipus?

Above: not I... The Typesetter

Wally the Weatherman- I'd rather be warped than bent. Have some gum. Actually, I think you're more distorted than bent. And don't make fun of my jewelry, or you'll be sorry. After all, I am a .... -Hostile Bitch

Hostile Bitch: Most people wouldn't be proud of a name like that. The Typesetter

AnneMarie: (You know who you are) Thanks for all the insight on Chaucer, Medieval Acting, and the solo in A minor of "Chevaliers". It would have been unbearable without you. Here's a hint - Keep you legs together - we wouldn't want you to catch pneumonia. See you next semester. Hostile Bitch

Peppermint Patty: I don't think I'm fit to be seen in a restaurant (it's frozen solid!). Whoops!! Wild Bill had better just see that I get H & D, or I'll tell Norie on him. I think we should put Wally the W-man in a vice and use Stiff Stuff on him (he's so bent!) -Hostile Bitch

Hostile Bitch - I agree with you 100 percent about "Annemarie." I always wanted to know, physically and chronologically, just how one alludes a verb by the use of a locus. Ah yes, my life is not complete. -Peppermint Patty

Wally the Weatherman- Although H.B. and I are "warped" as you so kindly describe us; at least we are not "bent" due to intense sexual strain (or lack thereof!) Maybe Alisa can help you, but here is surgery for your kind of "problem." -Peppermint Patty

Alisa: It's not more fun when it's bent; it's just more frustrating!!!! -Peppermint Patty

Peppermint Patty: Stop walking the straight and narrow. Take on a challenge when you can. The Typesetter

Randy: It's always fun to "steal" your own care out of a "locked" parking garage while on camera. Call me when you get $200 and we'll go out to eat. —Peppermint Patty

Marial law returns to Leitch 2nd Floor

To Keith in 1806: I really had a good time Thursday night. I don't think I ever went for a walk at 2am in the rain, but I suppose there is a first time for everything...I'm glad to report that my front teeth are still in their correct position - no thanks to you (just kidding) I hope you had as much fun as I did. But I was wondering, how come you didn't speak to me at the Carnival? The girl from Thursday night.

NoNUTS: Get a grip on yourself!!!!

Above: I have one question: Why were you looking? Guess Who

Mary was Joe's girlfriend. They used to go to the social gathering after church. They'd meet there, hold hands, and think pure thoughts. But one night at the social club meeting, Mary didn't show up. She was sucking c*** backstage at the Armory, in order to get a pass to see some famous rock group for free. Already we begin to see music cause BIG (big big big) TROUBLE (trouble trouble trouble). -The Central Scrutinizer

We bring you now to a garage in Canoga Park. That was Joe's first confrontation with the law. Naturally, we were easy on him. One of our friendly counselors gave him a donut, and told him to stick closer to church oriented social activity. -The Central Scrutinizer

Crash and burn, Live and Learn. (Thanks UGH!)

Cruel and Heartless- Doesn't it suck to always get what you want. If being spoiled or being a brat works to achieve a goal, then why not use it to some extent. It worked for me and you didn't exactly seem to mind. Your favorite spoiled brat.

Spoiled Brat: Ah yes, but the bitchin' whinin' and moanin' some times are too much for the average person to handle. The Typesetter

There's something French going on here.....

Dear Lisa C. (who lives somewhere between 707 and 709.) I'll be nice and not call you "Spike") - Don't you just love those "Star Trek" reruns? I know I love watching you watch them! James Brown, P.S. notice how I got to call you "Spike" without really saying it?

Punster: I never admitted to knowing who you are, but I do know someone who does...and she'll get what's coming to her! You may not live in Leitch, but you are "Living in America." -James Brown, P.S. What's the matter, do you not like baseball?

Doomness Reigns Supreme

To Johnny-o: Tank-you for peyin da ran-sun so kwiklee. Yur animal iz a reel brat. Ize hopes iez never seez it agen!

The Typesetter - A complicated process, but well worth it, I'm sure. Someday when you're up to it, you'll have to show me the results.

Above: I'm always up to it... The Typesetter

The Typesetter: I thought you were into ferret bowling.

Above: Ferret Bowling, Hamster Bowling. It's all rodent bowling to me. The Typesetter

To the Sojourn F Staff: Just curious...Why is there an F on your list of masseurs?

To the Question about bad knees and big ego's - I don't think that it is bad knees, but rather big (or so the person thinks) something else! It only stands to reason

To the Typesetter: This, being your last week on this illustrious page, is a good time to say something. Though many lesser forms of life seem to find your sheer poetic choice of words to be...uhm, boring. I for one find your insights to be truly supreme and omniscient in their nature. As you go out into that unknown realm known as the real world, may you find the roads you travel to be both challenging and fruitful. May you be surrounded by the kind of friends who do as much for you as you have done for your friends here at Lowell. And,

notnAP: Thank you. The Typesetter

To Red (R.H.): You are the ultimate geek! Grow up you stupid fool! Batman and Robin

Grim Reader: So, I've run away, have I? I was granted an audience with the masters of the cosmos and took advantage of the opportunity. You should have taken your opportunity to not further provoke me. I have returned to destroy you once and for all. Dr. Fate

Devastation, Inc: Don't use my name. Don't ever use my name. Do not associate yourselves with me in any way. Thank you for your cooperation in advance, The Critter Guy

Green Eyes - I really wish that you would make up your mind - you would have done a lot more blowing in the 15th Floor Junior's room if you had been given the opportunity, I'm sure. Be careful or someday you're gonna get it back twice as hard as you're giving it out. -Schnook

Quote for the week: "But I don't drink beer." Hic.

Definition of the week Defunt: 1. No longer living or existing; dead or extinct. 2. NoMuTT

NoMuTT - Many a thing has been said and wrote; 'Twill be all over soon, and I must end with this note: You err once again. Once again you err to say things against you I've acquired a flair. 'Twas not the young lady who lives on Fifteen, but another young lass, whose eyes are Green. And now that you've sampled this rash, biting wit, let a truce be pronounced, for I'm sick of this shit. Love, Someone who really does care

Above: Your high school replies, are getting rather lame, quit while you're ahead and play not this game. NoMuTT

To Lisa and Karen: Thanks for taking good care of me. Please don't let me be put back on the shelf with that silly cat. Bear

NoMuTT: Uncatched?!? For someone who was slammed for four weeks (until we all figured that you were dead and buried - wishful thinking!), you sure have a funny idea of uncatched. Also, it would be tough for us to expect less than nothing! Spokesman for the NoMuTT Wanna Be's P.S. I wouldn't want anything from NoMuTT

Spokesman for NMWB's: If you don't want anything from NoMuTT, then you are definately in the minority. Guess who

NoMuTT: Promises, promises!! From Someone who almost cares

Skeme - I checked it out. The bopper and the bat are on sale! If you hurry, maybe you can make peace with the 15th Floor Junior. I'm sure that any effort in trying to replace what was lost would be greatly appreciated by the 15th Floor Junior! -Schnook

15th Floor Junior -It wasn't my fault that I had trouble blowing last week. It was the straw's fault. Don't worry, I'll get a new straw and things will be back to normal this week, I promise!! -Schnook

Schnook - Your training is almost complete. I expect that after I leave, you'll keep on in my image. Just remember these past three months of lessons. I expect to see you at the rally (Second Saturday in August), and keep in touch! --15th Floor Junior

15th Floor Junior - Yes, I did keep my mouth shut for a little while. Just not long enough!! It's a good thing that I left otherwise things would have gotten a lot worse!! As far as having fun goes, I went to Bogus and I had fun. Oh boy, did I have fun!!! -Schnook

Kat: I love you. Chuck

Heather: Well, you know. Rob

Floors Straight Up - So, you are into tying people down outside of the Cafe. I believe it, considering you do strange things when you are drunk or would you like me to say under the affluence of inchiol? At least I remember the stupid things that I do when I'm sober which is more than I can say for when you are drunk! Just and get back at me now!! The Catcher

To the Punster - Be nice to me -I'm leaving!!! -15th Floor Junior

15th Floor Junior: Sort of like "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you." Well, you get the idea. The Typesetter notnAP - Have you figured out what arctophilia is, yet? It has something to do with small furry creatures. --15th Floor Junior NoMuTT - I know now what it is that English majors do in their spare time - sit around and write rhymes. Maybe at the end of four years you might even be somewhat good at it!! Who knows!!

You know who: Rhyming is not one of the things that I claim to do well. Try me, you might like me! NoMuTT

NoMuTT - Are you considering yourself a "squirt"? That would explain a lot of problems that have arisen since you came on The Connector scene. --Spike

Spike: "Arised"????? The Typesetter

Spike: Look further down the page for your abuse. NoMuTT

Hope you all have an okay summer. No Harm

Foxy Lady: You always seem to be around when I'm having a crisis. Thanks for listening last week. Good luck next year, you'll do a super job! Also, the letter was great, tell your secretary that I said thanks for the typing job. Scoop

To my favorite men on crew: You guys are great, but your timing stinks! I almost died when you walked through that door. Now that I think of it, it was pretty funny. I owe you guys a pizza. (That is if you don't blow me off again.) Scoop

Spike: I don't recall claiming to be a squirt. However, it seems to me that you are well informed about squirts. Perchance, do you practice often? NoMuTT

To Jim Brown - Hanging with the track team now? I don't know - Do you think that you can keep up with them? You seem to be on your way!!! You seemed to be having a nice 'conversation' the other night across the street. Now I know what to get you for xmas next year (if you can wait that long!) -an oxygen tank!! -Spike

notnAP - I never got to see you make vodka jello. (can we try it again another time?) --15th Floor Junior notnAP - Maybe you are forfeiting your chance intentionally. All I can say is ... Your loss. "You don't know what you're missing." You know where to find me if you change your mind. (I have the whips and chains. You bring the handcuffs.) --15th Floor Junior

To Jim Brown - Hanging with the track team now? I don't know - Do you think that you can keep up with them? You seem to be on your way!!! You seemed to be having a nice 'conversation' the other night across the street. Now I know what to get you for xmas next year (if you can wait that long!) -an oxygen tank!! -Spike

Personals

Bagel - Nothing. Nothing at all!! Well, you did ask for it. But you'd better be nice to Teddy, I'll come after you with cream cheese and "lox"!!! -15th Floor Junior

Coming in September: Christian Contemporary Concert here at ULowell, College of Music. Watch for more info

"Smitty, listen, I'm having my... Christine

Lady in Waiting: The end of the semester?? What ever will we do?? No one to torment, no one to get mad at us, no one to send pictures to? Let's face it, summer sounds really great right now. Thanks for all the "advice" and empathy, the year has been great. Always remember Dodger, Dopey and the horses as well as certain other two Enjoy the summer, you deserve the best. Fairy Godmother

Typesetter: Just a short personal to you to express on the behalf of the student body our gratitude for your work over the past years. The Connector and the University owes you a great debt. We wish you the best in your endeavors beyond ULowell. You will be missed as you leave a large pair of shoes to be filled. Good luck and keep in touch. Smith 4

Needless Death and Destruction - And all for what? -The Man with no Plants

Noel: Where did you disappear to this time? TMWNP

Squadron N-12: May the brotherhood always be what it is and always has been. Stay hard! The Highly Motivated High Hard One

The Geekulator: Nice name. You are but another hopeless being trying to gain a name for yourself by coming up with an imposing name. Congratulations! You can join the ranks of the Overlord, Devastation Inc., and the Necromancer. By the way, I played a hand in all of their destructions. You cannot escape your fate. Dr. Fate

To Lisa: You're more of a main attraction everytime I lay eyes on you. That piece of cloth makes the feature ah so wow!!! I am not kidding. I ain't no joke. Just a friendly personal from a dear friend

Larry in 402: From the bottom of my heart I wish you good luck on your finals. Also, I wish you a wonderful summer. I hope sometimes during the summer you think of me. I'll be think of you. Just Me

I have a couple of picas to fill and really nothing that is small enough to fill it. This should do it. The Typesetter

Yo Dave (1219)!!! The Dating Game is near by, so are you thinking who it's gonna be. Smoothing UNH... Hope, you know who. Don't get vicious... Good luck!!!! Your R.M.E. Oh boy, it's like Wheel of Fortune. Peace $$$

Yo Dave: Tonight's the night. Guess what, Yeah!!! UNH!!!UNH!!! That's right "The Dating Game" show will be in effect. Good Luck!!! Don't be nervous, she might pick you... Think $ O.K. Peace!!!! Eddie

Sil: Does the train leave at 9:00 or 10:22? Who the hell are Karen and Beth? Didn't you tell me the the projects were bad? Why would he want to get a condo project? Why were we fighting? Do pay phones receive incoming calls? Isn't there a liquor store open at 9:00 on a Sat. nite anywhere near Boston Garden? Should I ever yell at a cab driver in Boston again? Colleen

Laura: Is it true that the more your drink the better off you are? Gee, you looked sexy Saturday nite in that outfit. Love, Col, Jen and Sil

My Little Friend Steph: Please try to control yourself this weekend and not throw beer at people. My coats gone and it's over..BooHoo.. Maybe if I dance I'll feel better. Love, your tall friend Jen

Collen: Can you come here so I can slap you in the face, did you bring that gun with one bullet so I can drill it into his forehead? Woo..Sit back Betty and stop throwing around that attitude. Do I really think the world of him? Rantin and Ravin Hootin and hollarin and slammmin things, drifting into weeds, you'll be leaving now. Ya, Uha, do I look tan? Jennifer

Colleen: What time does that train come? did we miss it? Shit! get me to that liquor store now!! Silvia

Heather: We slice 'em, we dice 'em, we package 'em and ice 'em...Then we price 'em burnt sienna, thistle and corn flower crayola crayons were my favorites too. You should have poked Shady and Lurch's eyes out. Love, Jennifer. P.S. You're kick in the ass

Girls: Next time you see me double fist White Russians or not talking in English would you please bring me home and lock me in my room. McFly

Laura: "Jen, can you come here please... and hold my hand because I don't think I can walk down these stairs." Please Laura, don't ever drink Alabama Slammers again. Love, The One who carried you down the stairs

Sil and Heather: So, when did you stop using mousse and start using beer instead???

There are only THREE days of school left. And then finals - anywhere from one to seven and then SUMMER! The Typesetter

The Hopeful One: I don't know if I agree with your logic. Maybe there is no such thing as The Perfect Guy, but maybe there are a lot of nice guys who aren't morons. I guess it all depends on what side of the fence you are on. I'm sure on day the pudding will be on someone else's face. Good luck. No Relationship Required

LSR No. 2: Speaking of under the sheets (takes one to know one)... Don't be too upset about the spoon. After all, now you've got W.! Personally, if I had a choice I'd take the spoon. Your feet must be cold since all of your socks are dirty. LSR No. 3 P.S. I have to give you credit, (hun): Congratulations! It must be hard to maintain something for someone which they never had to begin with!

To Peppermint Patty: As for not-so-poor Alisa, you should have realized that "birds of a feather bend together!" The Sympathizer

Guinevere: May you only follow the paths that lead you to happiness and fulfillment. The Stairway to Heaven may look far in reach, but it can be a place on earth. Sorry I didn't write something that has more to it; next year I'll start it off right. I hope I will get a chance to meet up with you in the fall. *Calliope*

Bob - "We just kissed" -for sooooo long

Robin: Been entwined with anyone lately? It's about time to really scoop

Sam - Tweet, Tweet!

Robin - Can I buy you a shot of water Thursday night?

Poopy Dooey - Do we always pass out on the toilet after a night at Molloy's? And didn't your mother ever tell you that you shouldn't wear other peoples underwear?

Hottest dude on campus: Mike Chadwick

UGH: I can't possibly understand why you weren't ticklish in the darkroom the other night. I tried my best to make you laugh but all you did was develop. "The Lady in Waiting."

Heather: I really think that we could have something here. Or there. Or anywhere, anytime, everywhere.... well, you get the picture. That is, if you don't kill me first! Rob

Spanish Fly: I really enjoyed our talks about the mishaps in life, especially my life. By now you are probably writing a soap opera. Good luck, and have a lot of fun this summer. Maybe I'll see you around next semester. And guess what, I'll still be waiting! I hope Laurie knows how good she has it with you. You are a very special person. Stick with him Laurie. "The Lady in Waiting."

DJ in 215: I feel really bad about screwing up my exam, but I feel even worse about missing your party! I wanted to go, but luck has not been one of my friends lately. Since you can't have anymore parties this year, I hope you invite me next year. Hey, there's something I can be waiting for. "The Lady in Waiting"

Cecil, I thought you didn't have fun at parties! Mindy

Kerry: I thought you never cried over a boy, or is it only when we are drunk. Love ya, Me

Andrew Fox 812: Thanks for helping me, with some of the hard times and making them into happy and memorable ones. It's true, you are my strength. With you, the only times I find myself helplessly weak are when I look into your eyes-brilliant...captivating...I get lost in them for a time, and your smile melts my heart. Andy, I love you very much. -Lori

Tom: Thank you so much for taking care of me Thursday night. Honest, I really didn't think I was that drunk. You don't know how much I appreciated it. Thanks again. Love ya, ME

Bagel: I can't see my name anymore (My Wall)!!! The Typesetter

Kerry: What was Friday night all about? Talk about going back to the past? I thought you didn't like him, I think it's you who better wake up and get a clue on who to scoop love ya, Guess who

Kerry: Are going back to Santoros for seconds? I hear this week special is sloppy Joes'. Love ya, us

Baglady: What team are you going to scoop next year? Is there any left. If I remember right you already scooped the hockey, basketball, and baseball teams. Need I say more. Leave some for the rest of us

Above: There is always the tennis team (You're welcome Jason). The Typesetter

Scott F. - I'm off with three nuns from Cleveland to find out the meaning of life. Good luck next year with "Little Grunts" and the peer. Don't work too hard. Love, The Moth Lady. P.S. Tell Todd and Ethel Goodbye

Mary: When do I get my next shot of Wild Turkey? Im officially off the wagon (Hint, hint) and shots of the stuff always put me in such a good mood, if you know what I mean

AI - Thanks for the great weekend and for my new motorcycle-you're too nice!! If you stay nice I won't tell anyone - besides Terry - about your problem, you know what you did your sleep Friday night!! Love, Michelle

Sil and Heather: So, when did you stop using mousse and start using beer instead???

There are only THREE days of school left. And then finals - anywhere from one to seven and then SUMMER! The Typesetter

AI - O.K., maybe it is because I'm just so irresistible, but you did eventually wake up, didn't you?? I was the one just sleeping and minding my own business, Hands!!!! Michelle

Odie - It's Saturday and I'm not mad at you and thank you for the rose. I just know that those things aren't suppose to happen to people like us!!! So, let's not let them ever happen again! Michelle

To Sean Sweeney and Keith Reynolds: You guys did a great job! Thanks for a great day -Patrice and the "Wounded Worms"

Above: "Wounded Worms"?? Must be almost as good as the recked [sic] roaches. The Typesetter

Amr - Another year and you'll be all alone here- with me!! I'm changing my major to Nuclear Engineering or maybe I'll be a *#*ing brain surgeon!! Or, bye the way, he loves you - you're just too much of a lush for him!!!

Terry, One more and you're in the real world!! I don't envy you!! Congratulations and good luck in Calif. - you'll be lonely, but me and AI will be there soon, if the earthquakes haven't gotten you by then!! MJ

Crittur Guy - We like your violent nature. -Devastation, Inc

NoMuTT - Shut up you little squirt! -m.grappler

m.grappler: If you keep grappling, maybe you can make something squirt. NoMuTT

Typesetter - Apparently, you haven't met my pet hamster, Godzilla. He isn't happy. -m.grappler

m.grappler - No, I haven't met him. He must be doing something useful, like knowing on power cords. The Typesetter

NoMuTT - Your next intelligent remark will be your first! -m.grappler

m.grappler: It's amazing how philosophical a boy gets after his first beer. Delusions of grandeur abound. (And delusions of intellect, too) NoMuTT

Equalizer - Remember, liquor is the root of all evil. Before you make a statement towards me again, I suggest you make sure that you are not intoxicated. -The Grim Reader

Typesetter - I see that you have been doing your homework, but knowing what you do know may be more dangerous than knowing what you do not. As for not being worthy of my time, you are mistaken, for you are the only one so worthy. For this reason, it shall be more difficult to defeat you. But have faith my dear Setter of Type, the worst is yet to come! Until next semester, my most respected adversary. -The Grim Reader

The Grim Reader: I wish you much luck in your future endeavors. The Typesetter

Calliope - I do believe you are beginning to understand (last week to Guin). I also believe that you are the sole hope of this page from me. -The Grim Reader

PFOA - Too bad your lives have come to fighting over a pillow. Best of luck in the future. -The Hack P.S. Does PFOA mean Pillow F**kers of America?

Dear Fernando, So, are you making a comeback? And is Dilly Daly really responsible for your material? How can you tell when your cookies are stale? Is 'scraping' legal in this state? How many slam-pieces does it take to make a party? And am I really a misogynist? James called me a misogynist. That hurt my feelings. -The Tor-Mentor

When Mark and I had left the room where drunken songs were sung, We wandered through an unlocked door...Where Dan was sucking tongue! -The Tor-Mentor

NoMiND - Just remember, before you were mommy's little boy, you were daddy's little squirt...and look what that caused! -The Hack

The Hack: It is obvious that the best part of you dribbled down your daddy's leg. You must be a half squirt. NoMuTT

Typesetter - What's Hamster bowling? Is that when you finger them three times and throw them in the gutter? Poor little hamsters! -The Hack

The Hack: Hamster bowling is a little less messy than hamster baseball! Besides, the hamster lasts longer. The Typesetter Hopeful One - Are you a man hater? A confirmed? Or are you just giving up on men? Don't give up. Try the men of Devastation, Inc. We are always ready to render aid to damsels in distress. -The Hammer P.S. - But, no fat chicks!

Dev., Inc: That sounds like a typical Freshman response. The Typesetter

Typesetter - Drummettes worship any beating sound? Such as the hollow sound of my bouncing your empty skull off the sidewalk, repeatedly? Or perhaps the sound of a 34 inch Louisville Slugger putting your face into orbit? Or maybe the sound of splintering and cracking bones or exploding flesh when I pummel you with a ball-peen hammer? -The Hammer P.S. Lay off those poor little hamsters!

Hammer: You obviously don't understand the personals page. It is not here to make rude and crude comments and to show off your (lack of) [Cont. in next column] freshman wit. It is here to provide a release of tension and to have some fun. Here is an opportunity to say things, to boast of things (done or not) or what ever else your excuse for a mind can come up with, without any one knowing for sure who said it (unless you choose to let your pseudonym be known). You and all of Dev, Inc need to take time this summer and grow up. The Typesetter

Typesetter - Hamsters are such noble little creatures, particularly the teddy-bear and piebald varieties. We understand you're not being able to have a normal relationship, but abusing innocent little hamsters is sick, perverted, and downright not nice! -SPCA

Social Pig Corkers of America: I'm suppose to be hurt by comments coming from people (?) who like to get down and dirty in the mud? The Typesetter

Typesetter: I have asked you not to meddle in my business. Yet, you continue to make excuses for the petty Dr. Doom. "Occasionally" is one matter. "Once" since my appearance is quite another. I must deline on visiting your archives for the present. However when the Grim One overtakes the office and makes it his fortress, I will be sure to look it up. Beware!! -The Necromancer

Necromancer: 1. Everything on this page is my business, 2. Must be tough not to be able to do anything without consulting the Grim Reader, 3. Take over the offices.... Yeah, Right! The Typesetter

NoMiND - "Lame meter"? Obviously you have had much experience with this, since a good day for you probably registers in the low negative numbers. Just remember, we write our personals so that the objective humanoid readers will understand them - no matter how worthless and weak! Also, avoidance is not because of fear, it is solely because of a total lack of interest in someone who is about as interesting as the changing of the Above: Learn to read: "2)On a 3x5 index card." As in single index card. (By the way, a low negative number is -1.) The Typesetter

The NoMuTT Rap - You think you're cool, but yo' just a fool. You shoot off your mouth on North and South. When you mess with Devastation Inc. you can only end up being devastated. Who do you think yo' dealing wit? We are some dudes who don't take no shit! We love to abuse you now and then, 'cause we're the baddest mothers that's ever been! -The Anthony Bros.

Farewell to Dr. Fate, Doom Typesetter, Punster, NoMiND and all the others dumb enough to mess with Devastation, Inc. Collectively you function at the level of Prehistoric Pond Algae. We look forward to embarrassing you again next semester! -Devastation Inc

Calliope: If we had no winter, the spring would not be so pleasant. "Guinevere"

Jim - I lied, you actually had 3 servings of spaghetti, took all to your clothes off in the kitchen, and passed out in the shower. Guess who had to save you. -G

Bill C211: When do we need it? Now! The Dorito dip was primo. P.S. Your drool produced the most magnificat rainbow. The Keg Ladies

Sil: I have to dance, it will make me feel better!! Steph

David Bowie - You, are absolutely seductive! (want some ice for that one?) Thank you for being my "guardian", maybe next time I'll feign the act just for the attention! -Someone seeking warmth
